

NAVIX

Navix's Preceptorship in the Interpretation of Vascular Ultrasound is an intensive 4-day program to train physicians in all testing modalities including cerebrovascular, extremity arterial, extremity venous and visceral vascular. Delivered in a clinical setting, Navix's Preceptorship prepares physicians for the Physician in Vascular Interpretation (PVI) exam. Participants will expand or enhance their knowledge of vascular ultrasound in a collaborative learning environment that combines didactic lectures and hands-on scanning with preceptored interpretations of 500 vascular ultrasound cases presenting diverse vascular pathologies.

CHOOSING A PROGRAM

Here are three reasons why you should choose our program:

1. Small group didactic lectures, hands-on scanning & 32 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™
2. Interpretation of 500 studies including:
  - Carotid duplex ultrasound
  - Transcranial Doppler
  - Peripheral arterial physiologic testing
  - Peripheral arterial duplex ultrasound
  - Venous duplex ultrasound
  - Visceral vascular duplex ultrasound
3. Excellent pass rate for participants who have taken the RPVI exam

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

Upon completion, participants should be able to:

- Recognize normal and abnormal anatomy and physiology
- Interpret various non-invasive vascular imaging and physiologic tests
- Provide direction to technologists and physicians on the performance of vascular testing
- Manage vascular disease processes in a more effective manner
- Successfully complete the ARDMS Registered Physician Vascular Interpretation (RPVI) Certification Exam
